FROM THE TOP

As the calendar turns to August, we hope you've been able to break away from your home office and endless virtual meetings. I'm excited to have an expanded role now on the CRTA Board of Directors, and penning this message is part of the initiation process! I'm also very pleased to welcome two new Strategic Advisors to the Association – Myron Mallia-Dare from Miller Thomson LLP and Ally Karmali from IBM. These gentlemen had such a good time participating in one of our spring webinars that they were keen to contribute more of their time and talent. At the CRTA we've been busy developing our first series of podcasts, featuring some great personalities from the RegTech community. Give them a listen and be sure to let us know if there are other topics you'd like us to cover. Soon we will also be launching a survey to help us understand the extent of RegTech adoption in Canada and to provide industry leaders with a benchmark to measure against their peers. This is our opportunity to evaluate the landscape, identify gaps and opportunities, and raise the bar. If you would like to contribute your valuable perspectives, please do contact us.

Financial Services – Preparing for the Looming Credit Crisis

The COVID-19 pandemic has significantly affected financial institutions – slowing the growth of loan originations, increasing credit costs, contracting economic activity, and causing record levels of unemployment claims. It has also impacted the banking industry's exposure to the hard-hit travel, entertainment, and energy industries. While no one knows the severity or longevity of the impact on the global economy, banks have significantly increased the provisions for Allowance for Credit Loss (ACL) to build significant loan loss reserves.
