2020 was not all ‘doom and gloom’ – RegTech continued its upward growth trajectory with over $5 billion invested in RegTech in 2020. As Covid intensified regulatory challenges, technology is increasingly being recognized as an integral part of any compliance program. For the CRTA, 2020 was an incredibly positive year and we were able to reach many of our goals and milestones. We closed out our second year with a record 9 new member firms in December. Covid altered the lens and in some cases accelerated our 2020 predictions, but the broad themes were on the mark. It’s difficult to predict what 2021 holds and I hesitate to say ‘same, same’ yet many of the themes from 2021, such as surveillance, privacy, operational resiliency, and culture and conduct, will carry forward. One thing I think we will see is that, instead of looking for one-size-fits-all solutions, FIs will take a more comingled approach of combining solutions and emerging technologies to produce optimal results.

CRTA Welcomes 9 New Participants!Member Spotlight – Finiti*Meet Larry Bannerman – President*Tell us a little about your organization and why you got into this space.

At Finiti, our goal is to reduce the regulatory reporting burden associated with producing financial statements and MRFPs. Our team of project managers, technologists, proofreaders and designers is nimble and flexible, because filing deadlines aren’t. Since 1988, we’ve lived the inevitability of change from any number of stakeholders, including securities commissions, auditors, legal counsel, translation services, and shifting products and brands.
